Ferguson Group Australia announces a range of new Chemical Services at Australian Oil and Gas Exhibition 2015

Ferguson Group Australia, one of the country's largest offshore suppliers of DNV 2.7-1/EN 12079 containers, tanks, baskets, reefers, accommodation modules and engineering workspace modules to the offshore energy sector, announces a range of new chemical services to support its fleet of offshore tanks at the 2015 Australasian Oil and Gas Exhibition and Conference (AOG) in Perth, WA.

The Ferguson Group is exhibiting at the event during 11-13 March, at the Perth Convention Exhibition Centre, and located at stand J26.

Delegates will have the opportunity to meet with members of Ferguson Group Australia to learn more about the full range of DNV 2.7-1 offshore products available and to find out about the new chemical services available from the group's new facility located at Gap Ridge, Karratha WA.

The new Gap Ridge base has additional yard space completed with a concrete bunded storage, and was designed to support a range of chemical handling services e.g. tank cleaning, and products in tank.

Sonnie Groombridge, Business Unit Manager, Ferguson Group Australia said: "We have years of experience of handling offshore tanks and we are pleased that we can now provide a range of value add services to support our rental fleet."

Clients can now come to the Ferguson Group to source a complete tank service, from rental of tanks, bulk storage, liquid waste disposal and tank cleaning.

The company has recently secured a new contract to supply a number of tanks and associated services to a company involved in projects located in the North West Continental shelf region.

Groombridge continued: "We work closely with a range of E&P companies and chemical suppliers, and their feedback has helped us to identify and deliver additional services to support their organisations further, for example we have recently introduced and specialised equipment that were designed specifically for Helifuel tank cleaning. Our clients have very enthusiastic with this new service.”

Staff from Ferguson Group Australia will be on hand throughout AOG 2015 to talk about the Group’s products and services in the region.
