

Computer hire for Microsoft Windows 11 staff training

Microsoft is going to retire its Windows 10 operating system in October 2025 according to website bitdefender.com. That's only 18 months away.

Thousands of companies are going to have to decide when they will migrate from Windows 10 to Windows 11. It will be a necessary inconvenience and a logistical headache for many companies. Only the largest companies will have training departments with computers and staff dedicated to help staff become familiar with the new Microsoft operating system.

Many will schedule an intense period to put staff through training. They will often hire a freelance Microsoft trainer and hire computers and laptops for a temporary IT classroom.

Whatever number of machines you require and for however long, Quality Rental Tek Hire can provide all of the computer equipment needed for this training. The classroom might be onsite in the office or somewhere else, like an hotel. Our team will configure the set-up to meet your exact requirements. We can supply:

- Computers
- Laptops
- Monitors
- Keyboards and mice
- Networking

If you want us to set up a user environment that mirrors what staff will see when they return to their desks after the training has been completed, we can do that as well. We will supply a specification of machine that suits your needs and we guarantee it will be in pristine condition and be of a trusted computer marque.

Contact us today and one of our pre-sales representatives will help prepare a quotation for you to consider. We supply across the whole of Scotland and Northern England. Call 01355 699077.
