

Best Work Boots For 2021

Work boots, what the nation is built upon so ideally you will want value for money when purchasing your best work boots. Of course there are things to consider before you buy your boot, what environment will you be working in. Do they have to have safety standards, steel toe caps, resistant to oils etc.

Best Safety Work Boots (Laces)

Caterpillar Boots

The Caterpillar Holton Honey safety boots seem to have been around for generations. They have even found their way into becoming a fashion statement, some go for the pristine look. While others like to make them look used to complement their fashion sense.

That's why we may forget that the CAT Holton Honey is probably one of the best selling safety work boots of all time. Not only do they look fantastic but also keep your feet safe. These Holton Honey boots are tough and made to last and great value for money. Because they are tough you will need a few wears to bed them in, but once you do they are one of the comfy work boots of 2021. Make sure you are buying the real deal and not fake safety boots.

Hoggs of Fife Safety Boots

Hoggs have been making safety footwear, amongst other outdoor wear since 1888. They have slowly gained an excellent reputation with the farming and fieldsport fraternity. We all know the weather up North is more extreme and Hoggs produce their work boots with this in mind.

Artemis Premium Safety Boot

This is a work boot that has your best interest at heart. This is the flagship safety boot designed to keep you safe. Superbly designed and packed full of technical safety features you won't appreciate just how good these boots really are until you have a pair on your feet. The Artemis is not quite as popular as the CAT Honey, well I say that. In Scotland the Hoggs brand is very popular and of course the Scottish are very passionate about products made there.

The Artemis comes in a little cheaper than the Holton Honey but still looks good and has great safety features.
