

Water Cutting

The water cutting company is a company that offer a bespoke design and fabrication service for Tier 1 construction companies. They have a warehouse in London where they use waterjet cutting to craft raw materials into high quality designs with unparalleled precision. Combined Safety Solutions have played a key part in maintaining the safety standards within the warehouse by providing services such as sourcing all required safety signage.

Our work with this company helps them to ensure the safety of their operatives through our regular safety audits where we will help to eliminate potential hazards. Creating a safe working environment for the operatives not only protects the staff but also the company.
