

We are thrilled to share some incredible news that has made this week an unforgettable one for us at Polar Thermal Packaging LTD. It's a testament to our dedication, innovation, and commitment to excellence.

Kings Award for Enterprise Shortlist - Innovation Category

We are excited to announce that we have been shortlisted for the prestigious King's Award for Enterprise in the Innovation category. This recognition is a testament to our groundbreaking Polar Blood bag. We're honoured to be in contention for the UK's most esteemed business award.

Sustainable Packaging Award - "Made in Britain"

In addition to the King's Award shortlist, we're elated to inform you that we've won the Sustainable Packaging Award in the "Made in Britain" category. Our Polar DotBox, an innovation we're incredibly proud of, has been recognized for its versatility and sustainability.

Here's what Jon Moss, Customer Engagement Director at Fortnum & Mason, had to say about our solution that can be applied in various environments, from fresh and chilled food to frozen food and pharmaceuticals. It's compatible with existing equipment, forward-thinking in terms of electric vehicles, and offers recyclable and reusable qualities."

Polar DotBox: "Polar Thermal's Polar DotBox is a versatile

 Blood Transport System for NHS: Our commitment to the healthcare industry has earned us a King's Award nomination. We've developed a groundbreaking Blood Transport System for NHS Blood & Transport. These portable systems play a crucial role in safely transporting whole blood, plasma, and platelets for the NHS. In rigorous testing, we scored a perfect 100/100, an astonishing 36 points ahead of the closest competitor.

Our specially designed bags meet the stringent NHS requirements and are proudly manufactured at our Warminster factory.

We would like to extend our gratitude to our dedicated team, partners, and of course, our valued customers like you. These achievements wouldn't be possible without your trust and support.

As we continue to innovate and strive for sustainability, these accolades drive us to push the boundaries of excellence even further. We are committed to delivering the best solutions to meet your needs/

Stay Cool, Stay Safe, Stay Polar Chilled!

