A Family Legacy Spanning Generations

Hague Fasteners was founded over 50 years ago by Jack Hague's grandfather and the baby's great-grandfather, Jack Hague Sr. Starting as a small, family-owned business in Wolverhampton, the company has grown to become a trusted name in bespoke fastener manufacturing. Today, under the leadership of CEO Jon Hague, the business remains firmly rooted in its values of precision, integrity, and innovation—values that continue to be passed down through the generations.

This milestone is a beautiful reminder of our commitment to the family ethos that has driven our success for more than five decades. It's a moment of pride for the entire Hague team and a symbol of continuity for our cherished clients.

A Warm Welcome to Baby Hugo Jonathan

As we celebrate this wonderful occasion, we'd like to extend a heartfelt thank you to everyone who has supported Hague Fasteners over the years. Our team remains inspired by the trust and loyalty of our clients, which allows us to pass on a thriving legacy to the next generation.

Hugo Jonathan represents not just a new beginning for the Hague family, but also a reaffirmation of our promise to deliver unparalleled quality and service for generations to come.

Commitment to Our Clients and Future

As we look forward to the future, this moment is a perfect opportunity to reflect on our heritage and the strong partnerships we've built. Hague Fasteners remains dedicated to serving your bespoke fastener needs with the same passion and attention to detail that have defined our business since its founding in 1971.
